BEST FUTURE ADDRESS

Oceanwide Plaza's Park Hyatt Los Angeles Residences

Angeles Residences will set a new tone for what it means to live in downtown L.A. by redefining urban living, with five-star amenities and services never before seen on the West Coast," explains Oceanwide Plaza CEO Thomas Feng. "The residences will bring exquisitely crafted homes offering quiet sophistication at every turn, expanding on the highly personalized service that the Park Hyatt brand is globally known for." Those five-star amenities include complimentary housekeeping, in-residence dining, party-stocking, a 24-hour concierge, a state-of-the-art fitness facility, a movie theater, a resort-style pool, lush gardens and more. If that weren't enough, the one-, two- and three-bedroom condos were designed by Studio Munge and include high-end modern finishes. Says Feng: "Oceanwide Plaza and Park Hyatt are bringing to life a new standard to DTLA high-rise luxury living and will serve as an oasis from the bustling energy of DTLA." BEST DESIGN-FOCUSED MUSEUM SHOP

When Hauser & Wirth (hauserwirthlosangeles.com) opened in 2016, it quickly became the heartbeat of DTLA's Arts District. The transformed flour mill has drawn in locals and tourists alike with its cutting-edge exhibitions; delightful public garden; and Manuela, the chic, Southern-inspired eatery known as much for its flaky biscuits and inventive cocktails as it is its gorgeous open-air design. Now, adding to the allure is the Hauser & Wirth Gallery Shop, which offers a curated selection of handcrafted items from local and international makers. Think lambswool and cashmere blankets ($700 to $1,000); handcarved wood serving utensils ($200 to $400); and pottery ($80 to $200) made in collaboration with the gallery's artists, including Mary Heilmann, Lee Lorenzo, Eva Hesse and more. "[We also carry] skate decks by L.A.-based artist Paul McCarthy ($350), the proceeds of which fund community spaces in developing nations, [and] knives ($350 per set) made with wood from the farm surrounding the site of Hauser & Wirth Somerset," says Senior Director Stacey Berg. We can't think of a better reason to shop local.
