

Beauty Beat: How to achieve Margot Robbie's statement eyebrows

By Stephanie Darling

29 April 2018 — 12:00am

Our favourite celebrity eyebrows right now belong to actor and producer Margot Robbie

Photo: AP

Trend: Statement Brows

Our favourite celebrity eyebrows right now belong to actor and producer Margot Robbie. We love these arches for their volume and perfectly feathered finish. To get brows looking shapely, seek professional help with tidying and tinting and fill in any gaps with a hard-working brow wand.

Road Test

This week I try ... a rejuvenating facial

The lowdown I'm with skin therapist Amy for the anti-ageing Rationale EpiNova Photosonic Facial, which combines active serums and creams with microcirculatory massage. Along with her skilful hands, Amy also works an ultrasonic wand over my face to help the high-octane cosmeceuticals home in on any pigmentation and congestion. The final 20 minutes are spent under the healing LED light – this has become standard practice with many anti-ageing facials, as it helps skin produce more collagen, which in turn plumps it up. During this time, Amy gives me a relaxing arm and hand massage. Bliss. This is the first of four treatments to help me prep and protect my skin from the drying winter months ahead.

Downtime 90 minutes.

Results My face feels very nourished and nurtured, and my skin looks blotch-free and smooth.

Where to get it Sydney: All Saints Skin Clinic, allsaintsskinclinic.com.au. Cost: $270. Melbourne: Rationale, rationale.com. Cost: $270.

At home Rationale DNA Night Cream, $185, rationale.com.

Add to Cart

France's latest ultra-luxe cream uses a concentration of cold-pressed botanical and marine extracts to hit ageing skin in all the right spots. Designed to help strengthen the skin's barrier function to keep pollution nasties out, the formula works by tackling sagging skin with a plumping action. Basically, the aim is youth in a jar. Biologique Recherche La Grande Crème, $934, skincareedit.com.

Biologique Recherche La Grande Crème, $934.

Photo: Jennifer Soo