

fashion

beauty

food

travel

living

mommy + baby

health

contests + offers

reviews

Search

#Girlboss Chronicles: Miriam Alden, Founder and Creative Director of Brunette the Label

by Caroline Elie, Posted on August 24, 2018

Follow Caroline on

the FASHION SPOT

LEARN MORE +

In your opinion, what is the hardest thing women have to face in 2018?

There is a major issue with being compared to others and the expectation of being able to do it all. I think that comparison has existed for a very long time, but I do think it is enhanced by social media. Despite this, I think there are some amazing things happening in 2018. We are coming together and using these changes to create a very collaborative community for women.

What is the last book you've read?

Last book I finished: Crazy Rich Asians by Kevin Kwan, and am currently reading: The Vanity Fair Diaries by Tina Brown.

Where would you like to go on your next trip?

I am going to Australia and Bali for my next trip, but I am really interested in going to Iceland because I want to see the Northern Lights! I also am dying to go to Mexico City.

Do you have a life motto?

Babes supporting babes!

What's the one product that's always in your purse?

I always have bronzer and Biologique Recherche lip balm.